

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A storage trunk compartment devised specifically for a truck type vehicle is disclosed and is hereafter referred to as a “truck storage trunk”. The truck storage trunk shall extend from the front of the truck’s bed to half of the truck bed’s length and shall be constructed in such a manner as to provide clearance between itself and the truck’s wheel housing (for trucks that have wheel housings that are internal to the truck’s bed). The truck storage trunk shall be built with dual trunk lids that rise when a key is used to unlock the trunk. The trunk lids shall be accessible from either side of the truck’s bed. The depth of the truck storage trunk shall be sufficiently deep for the user to be able to store luggage, golf bags, groceries, camping gear, or other similar items. The purpose of the truck storage trunk is to provide a removable lightweight secure watertight storage compartment to be used for transporting of common items while providing easy access to those items.
